Following the EIL interactive interview-based masterclass methodology employers will be interviewing students on how they demonstrate they have certain skills.

Participants will be representing employers; interviewees will be students from EIL student partners.

The ErasmusJobs project is led by the Erasmus Student Network (ESN) in collaboration with the partners below. The purpose of this workshop is to identify good examples of key skills/competencies wanted by employers and how these can be demonstrated by students in job interviews.

The output will be a useable framework which can facilitate the assessment of skills (and self-assessment by students) in future interviews.
